A Modern Newspaper.

The way in which the Boston Herald has forged ahead of every other Boston paper in the last few months is attracting attention all over the country. In the now celebrated Albee Barrett case, the Herald was the first to announce the name of the mysterious man which the other Boston papers had struggled in vain to discover. The Herald was the first to print the story of the double life of W. B. Whiting, and the other papers weakly copied it. At the international yacht race at Montreal, the Herald was the only paper with enterprise enough to secure special wires from the lake to Boston, and had the pleasure of announcing the result a good half hour before any other paper had it. Enterprise of this kind is expected of New England's greatest newspaper, and the Herald is nobly fulfilling the public expectation.

NEWSY ITEMS FROM NEW YORK.

Wheat Passes the Dollar Mark. A Meeting of the New York Anarchists. Successful Test of the Hardie Compressed Air Locomotive.[SPECIAL TO THE TOWNSMAN]
NEW YORK, AUG. 25, 1897.

Amid the scene of excitement wheat passed the dollar mark and closed at $1.00 1-4 in the Produce Exchange last Wednesday, breaking all previous records for the year. The lowest price of the day was 91 1-4 cents. The highest figure for the corresponding day last year was 65 cents. Foreign markets have continued strong during the past week. All the railway lines bringing wheat from the West to New York have every available grain car in service, and indications point to the probability that there will not be a sufficient number of cars to handle future shipments except at great delay. These facts are of interest when considered in connection with Mr. Bryan's predictions last fall. Mr. Bryan said that wheat would fall to 25 cents if Mr. McKinley were elected, no matter what the foreign market was. He also said that the price of wheat and the price of silver rose or fell, hand in hand. When silver was high, wheat would be high, and when wheat was high, silver would be high. What is now the highest in years, silver the lowest in years.

The Anarchists of New York are furious with joy over the bloodthirsty acts of their European comrades. So uncontrollable became their excitement after the assassination of Premier Canovas that they quickly rented a hall and assembled en masse to rejoice over the death of a new victim. Not since they joined in the big rally for John P. Altgeld in the Bryan campaign meeting last fall have the New York Anarchists turned out in such large numbers as they did last Monday night in Clarendon Hall. No one who has not attended a meeting of these Anarchists can quite realize the character of the assemblage.

Clarendon Hall is famous for labor meetings and East Side dances at which there are usually one or more fights. The assembly hall proper is on the second floor fronting on Thirteenth Street. On the ground floor is a notorious music hall and the capacious bar. The Anarchists duly considered these attractions the other night and in hiring this particular hall, they secured for themselves an ideal meeting place. The crowd came early and the place was filled a few moments after the doors were opened. The meeting was held under the auspices of the "Anarchist group" of Anarchists of which Emma Goldman is leader. Over half of those present were women. Both the men and the women were of the class which is not actively engaged in honest labor. The stamp of the fanatic or the inebriate was on every face.

The meeting was tumultuous from the start. I noticed several of the leaders were the same persons who were seated on the platform in the Altgeld meeting last October. Emma Goldman was the boss of the meeting. She has complete control of her comrades, and she sways them now this way, now that, like so many aspens. No red flags were in evidence the other night, but two huge portraits were displayed back of where Emma Goldman stood. One was of Pallas, the Anarchist accused of throwing the first bomb at Barcelona, and the other was of Caesar, President Carnot's assassin. Forty uniformed policemen and twelve Central office men were present to keep the disorder within lawful bounds. They were hissed and gaped from the start.

As soon as the speaking began the hall became blue with tobacco smoke mostly from old pipes, and the beer glasses began to make swift trips between the bar and the audience. The Anarchist's enthusiasm is seldom unaided by alcohol. Several heated speeches were delivered by foreigners with queer names before Emma Goldman arose. When she rose, tall and her long hair in disorder over her large head, and her wild eyes flashing from behind the eye glasses she always wears, the uproar began in earnest. Every sentence was greeted by a roar, a chorus of clinking beer glasses and the stamping of a hundred feet.

Miss Goldman delivered an eloquent laudation of the assassin of Canovas and then proceeded to denounce the former Premier of Spain in the wildest of terms. Her words were foal with blasphemy and of a highly hysterical nature. They were greeted by delightful yells and execrations from behind the cloud of tobacco smoke. She denounced the police who were present and then turned her stream of abuse upon no less a subject than the President of the United States. "He is afraid he may be next to be removed," she screamed, and her comrades, the same comrades who roared praise for Altgeld and Bryan last fall, bellowed and stamped their approval. Her clenched fist flew about in a variety of gestures and her voice alternately shrieked and hissed. All the world's great assassins were praised to the skies.

The Hardie compressed air locomotive, previously described in detail in these columns, was given a successful trial over the tracks of the elevated railway a few days ago. Everything connected with the trial tended to demonstrate the superiority of compressed air as a motive power over the present steam locomotive system.

The new locomotive was coupled to a regular train consisting of five cars, and containing about two hundred passengers and invited guests. The trial run was made over the Sixth Avenue Division from Rector Street to Fifty-eighth Street, and return to Cortlandt Street. Robert Hardie, the inventor of the system, acted as engineer, and on the train were the officials of all the city and suburban lines. No attempt was made to accomplish a high rate of speed, and such indeed would have been impossible with the frequent regular trains running on the same track. But the run to Fifty-eighth Street was made in three minutes better time than the regular schedule time for that distance. The locomotive stopped and started the train with great promptness and proved if anything easier to control than the steam locomotives.

The air locomotive outwardly resembles a regular locomotive except that its boiler is larger in proportion and it has no smoke stack. Air is pumped into it up to a pressure of 2,500 pounds to the square inch. The charging from the compressing station takes no longer than it does for a steam locomotive to fill its tank. The air works in the cylinders exactly as steam does. By the Hardie process the air when passed into the locomotive receiver passes through a hot water tank. This returns much of the heat lost in the process of compressing, and it also gives back to the air the water vapor lost in compressing. The locomotive will be placed in regular service on the elevated road for an extended trial. Statements in a sensational newspaper that the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company had adopted the third rail electric system for their lines, have no foundation.

HISTORICAL ANDOVER.

No. 64.

JOHN LOVEJOY'S WILLIAM.

No. 38 of this series, issued July 31, 1896, gives the history of the first of John Lovejoy's alliances with his neighbors, the story of the aged man's grief, and the placing of the farms of the several sons. "John, grandson of the elder Lovejoy, who lived near the Downing estates on the hill side, about 1715 sold out to William Foster, the weaver, his share of the great division left him by his grandfather, lying near the Frye estates in North Parish, the most eastern of all the Lovejoy lands, and the mill pond and dam owned in common with his uncles, which seems now to be near the Osgood estates in Frye Village and possibly near the site of Hussey's laundry house.

This mill privilege, with buildings thereon, seems to remain in the hands of "Henry Lovejoy's son "William through a bequest from Dea. "William, his grandfather, and lies in 1736 west of the Shawshin. "Henry's land lay both sides the river, and a section in the centre on Roger's brook, and a lane reserved to the end of time was kept open for travellers to the corn mill of the Lovejoy's, in a sale of land to the blacksmith, David Holt, by the aged "William just after his bequest to his grandson. So it seemed after all to be nearer the centre, and lying near a highway that led from the widow Hanna Abbott's to Ballard's mills, thus placing it nearer the Little Hope brook water power on Indian Ridge slopes. So for a long year I have tried to locate this tantalizing corn mill.

The family of John Lovejoy disappears from our records, his daughter Frances, brought up in the home of her uncle "Ebenzer, marrying a Chelmsford Foster. To the Foster and Lovejoy marriages our homely (otherwise gifted) Abbott-Holt line owes what little beauty we have heired, and such representative types as our Dea. William Abbott of the South Parish and Dea. Ballard Lovejoy of the West are fair pictures of the comeliness of the old Lovejoy stock. The family of the Lawrences of Groton, the handsome men and women in the descent of "Caleb Abbott and his wife Lucy Lovejoy will give the less favored kin among the Abbotts some idea of what they lost by passing by the Lovejoy belles for the more solid attractions of dowry with the Holt and Ballard girls. I myself am satisfied with my ancestors' choice of grandmothers, and the long life of both Holt and Lovejoy kin gives us time to finish what we plan, as a rule. But I am still in search of Lovejoy's corn mill, owned by the four sons of John who staid to grind for the neighbors.

In 1760, widow Hanna Lovejoy, who, after the death of "William, was with Capt. "Joshua, the joint owner of the mill at that date, seems to be getting an income from it for about eleven years and her sons repair the building. All the rest of the large family of "Henry had gone north to Concord to fill the ranks of old Indian war officers, occasionally coming back for a wife, or a transfer of estate up there, for the privilege of learning a trade in busy Andover, as the generations passed on.

"Martha Lovejoy started for Lunenburg with Jonathan Abbot, but came back to finish her days on the old Stephen David farm where the descendants still dwell. Our Lovejoys came and went in such an odd fashion that the present lines have birthplaces all over New England. Pembroke and York draw them away, and even Capt. Joshua wound up as a deacon at Sanbornton. "Samuel, son of the old Lieutenant and Deacon "William, happened to choose a Stevens, and the one son "Isaac, thanks to her love of home lands, staid at home. His sister Hanna married a Middleton Stiles; Debora, the exquisite housekeeper and orator, according to her descendant, the editor of the Ithaca, N. Y., "Democrat, married John Phelps, went off to New York wilds early, "scrubbing her cabin floor till it fell into the cellar, and wearing equally thin the patience of her men folk with admonition; Mary went to Lunenburg with Isaac Bailey; these all left us. The line of "William and Sara Frye with the Captain's honors, the tankards, old Pomp Lovejoy, and great estate came to "Anne, wife of Zebadiah Abbott, the trader, as I have told in No. 38, of the west side, and "Phebe, wife of Isaac Abbott, on the east side of the Shawshin across which spread out the fair dowry. The old houses came to us in this line of "William, to whose industry and judgment in trade we owe the fine holding of Samuel Locke, those that cluster near the West church on the Frye Village road, and the Whittrier house, "Draper building," the Richardson estate, and a few other solid old houses built or bought in that line of Abbotts.

In 1771, widow Hanna (Evans) Lovejoy with a family of eight, stops grinding corn and disappears from Andover records; and I will get their destination when a day at Salem is long enough. "Isaac is well placed on the west side of the Merrimac with Debora Sheldon, on his father's homestead, with lands along Blanchard's Pond brook, and Capt. Joshua, the Revolutionary veteran yet to be, seems to have control of the Shawshin mill. An almanac among others kept over from 1745 to 1760, till "Ezekiel Osgood emigrated to Blue Hill, Me., tells of the building of Joshua's new house in 1756 and the raising of the new mill in 1751. If some one can place these two old buildings, we have their age. May 5th, 1760, Ezekiel records "My Danny fell into Lovejoy's mill pond and went through the mill wheel." Daniel grew up and died in Bunker Hill days, a brave soldier, years after they had "caught fish at Lovejoy's mill once on the third week in February, 1751." Ezekiel Osgood lived on the site of the Town farm, which was his grandfather Christopher's estate, so the mill seems now to be wandering back down stream. Perhaps the new mill in 1751 was built on a new site.

Capt. Joshua's "Lucy married Theophilus Frye, grandfather of our historian, T. C. Frye, and her children were born in the residence improved by Joseph W. Smith. "Dorcas was the second wife of Capt. Benj. Ames and lived on the old estate on the cross road in West Parish near the Jewish cemetery, one of the old Chandler homes and about the oldest of them now standing. "Chloe married John Poor in 1776 and it was a tradition that when a young girl she rode home from Salem with a little black boy on her saddle included among her purchases, and that he grew up to be the Salem Poor whose honorable service at Bunker Hill is given on page 324 of the Bailey History. I feel that Chloe, born in 1763, could not have raised a very small boy after she was old enough to go shopping on horseback to Salem; but I have no doubt her mother, Lydia Abbott, born in 1723, daughter of Lieut. "Henry Abbott, or Phabe Lovejoy, her aunt, the wife of Uncle Isaac Abbott, trader in Salem's day of foreign commerce, may have brought the baby home from the ship that had brought him to Salem port. He was probably part of Chloe's dowry, and won fame for her besides adding to the growing record of that faithful race of aliens, who had made our cause their own in both wars. They are our brothers indeed and I hope Pomp's Pond will long remain the monument of another veteran who lived a freeman to the age of 102 after the death of Capt. William Lovejoy in 1752. Another link between Foster and Lovejoy kin so closely united was Rose, his wife, who was a servant of John Foster, on the old farm of "Master Billy."

Capt. Joshua died and his one boy goes to Amherst, N. H., leaving "Mary as Widow Parker and a second marriage with Jonathan Cummings, "Lydia who married Abiel Holt as the grandmother of the late Mrs. Elbridge G. Manning to represent this line. So "Isaac was the one to keep the name in Andover. He lived up on the Merrimac near the family of Wm. Morse and Phebe Bodwell, and with the exception of "Lydia who married Palfrey Downing and "William who married Mary Dune, the connection was mainly with the new family from Newbury who were planted in Methuen across the ferry. "Isaac and Mary Morse, "Bodwell Lovejoy and Sally Poor lived many years on the river road near the Shattuck estates. William Callahan, Peter Parker, and Israel Johnson all went away with Lovejoy brides well known to our elders. "Henry went to Amherst leaving "William and Phebe Stiles, the father of "Stephen A. Lovejoy, born 1835, the last of this line on our voting list. Harriet, wife of John Bodwell of Methuen, near 80, also represents this family line. In another sketch will be traced more of the heirs to a good name.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1879 when I served my country as a private in Company A, 18th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 60 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEUBENBERG, Allentown, Pa. CARNATION CULTURE.

Tree Carnations—Autumn Treatment—A New Yellow Variety.

The remontant, or tree carnation, is an important plant with commercial growers and florists. New varieties of it appear every year. The propagation of the plants from cuttings is usually done from February to April. The young rooted plants in the greenhouse are placed in cold frames in the spring and principally in open ground. The large grower plants out in rows about 8 feet apart and 8 or 10 inches distant in the rows, keeping the ground clean and mellow at first with the hoe and afterward by use of horse and cultivator. The private grower uses the hoe, giving the plants only the space they may require. The aim is to maintain a steady, thrifty growth during the season. All flower buds must be kept off, and the ends of the shoots must be pinched in several times during the season in order to make the plants as branching as possible, and so capable of producing the greatest number of flowers.

The plants are left out until frosts are to be expected, then they are carefully lifted, each with some soil attached, potted, watered and left a few days in the shade. Afterward they are given a place near the glass, which for a few days may require to be shaded. Commercial florists set the plants in solid beds in their houses. The most favorable temperature for the plants from this time forward is from 50 to 55 degrees. As to the supply of water, wet the soil thoroughly, and then allow it to become nearly dry before watering again. Carnation growers have become critical in regard to varieties, and a new one must have superior points to be acceptable. Vick's Illustrated Magazine gives, in addition to the foregoing information, a fine engraving of a new yellow variety named Mayor Pinckney.

Fertilizing Orchards.

It is hard to get the soil too rich or too full of vegetable matter for the best production of vegetables. With fruits the case is different. To secure the best results on thin land orchards must be fertilized, but it must be done with care and judgment, as explained in The Farmers' Review. Excessive applications of stable manure or other nitrogenous fertilizer should always be avoided, especially after trees reach bearing age. Such applications induce a rank, sappy growth that makes pear trees much more liable to blight and will surely cause destructive rotting of the stone fruits. With apples there is less danger, and they may safely be fertilized quite heavily. Excessive wood growth is, however, never desirable in a bearing orchard of any kind. The trees should be carefully watched and be given such treatment as will give a crop of well developed fruit and at the same time a moderate growth of well matured wood. The leaves should always be of a dark rich green, for pinched yellow foliage indicates starvation.

Hedge of Dictamnus.

A hedge of a herbaceous perennial is a rather rare occurrence, as but few species are adapted to such use. A showy spectacle is required when in flower and a pleasing appearance of foliage the balance of the season. The plants must stand up against winds and rains and grow with vigor in heat and drought. Probably one of the best for this purpose, says a contributor to Gardening, is the European gas plant, Dictamnus albus, and its variety rubra. Its synonym is D. fraxinella, and it bears the common names of gas plant, burning bush and dittany. It is an old inhabitant of the garden, having been known since 1596.

Under good cultivation it grows about two feet high, blooming in early June in long terminal racemes, white or a deep pink according to variety.

Propagating Tea Roses.

The usual way of propagating tea roses is by means of cuttings of firm or nearly mature wood, and they are rooted under glass, with a bottom heat of 65 or 70 degrees. From January to March is the usual time of propagating. One bud cuttings are commonly selected, most of the foliage being trimmed off. Many of the florists select their cuttings from flowering shoots, thinking that this will produce more freely blooming plants than "blind" wood. The cuttings are rooted in clean sand and then potted off into thumb pots. Plants thus rooted in winter or early spring are planted under glass during the summer, to bloom the following winter.—Rural New Yorker.

A MOTHER'S RUSE.

Saved Her Sons From Conscription, but Changed the Family Name.

A gentleman living in Boston told an interesting story the other day about how some of his blood relatives happened to have a family name different from his own. It seems that during the persecutions in Scotland these particular Kirkpatricks went over to Ireland and settled in Belfast. Subsequently the head of the family came across the ocean and as soon as he was established sent for his wife to join him, bringing with her their four sons, two of whom were old enough to make strippling soldiers had some exigency demanded such a sacrifice. The journey was undertaken in a slow going ship bound for New York, and while she was somewhere in mid-Atlantic the war of 1813 between England and the United States broke out.

The ship when nearing our seaboard was overtaken by a British cruiser, which put her about and escorted her to Halifax, Nova Scotia. The officer in command of the cruiser declared his intention of impressing sailors and soldiers from among the passengers. A mother having more than two sons would have to give up all over that number who might be available for military or naval service. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, who was a quick witted woman, instantly planned a ruse which she justified in her own mind by calling it ruse de guerre (a trick of war). She stood two sons in one part of the ship and two in another and was accepted, without detection, as the mother of both pairs, though she called herself Kirkpatrick in one instance and Kilpatrick in the other.

After they disembarked the deception had to be kept up, as they were constantly under the eyes of British officers. The interception by the cruiser resulted in the family settling in Halifax instead of in the United States, but even after peace was restored the two Kirkpatrick boys found it much harder to get their name back than it had been to exchange it on shipboard. In fact, they never got it back.

Those who had come to know them as Kilpatrick refused to know them as Kirkpatrick, and in the course of time the effort to reclaim the family name was abandoned as hopeless. The variation in prefix made expedient pretense by the intermeddling cruiser seems to have been ordained to continue sine die.—Harper's Round Table.

OUR SMALLER COLLEGES.

In Many Respects They Are Doing Better Work Than the Larger Institutions.

"There are a few striking facts about the small American colleges," writes Edward W. Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "One striking fact is that 60 per cent of the brainiest Americans who have risen to prominence and success are graduates of colleges whose names are scarcely known outside of their own states. It is a fact also that during the past ten years the majority of the new and best methods of learning have emanated from the smaller colleges and have been adopted later by the larger ones. Because a college happens to be unknown 300 miles from the place of its location does not always mean that the college is not worthy of wider repute. The fact cannot be disputed that the most direct teaching and necessarily the teaching most productive of good results is being done in the smaller American colleges.

The names of these colleges may not be familiar to the majority of people, but that makes them none the less worthy places of learning. The larger colleges are unquestionably good, but there are smaller colleges just as good and in some respects better. Some of the finest educators we have are attached to the faculties of the smaller institutions of learning. Young girls or young men who are being educated at one of the smaller colleges need never feel that the fact of the college being a small one places them at a disadvantage in comparison with the friend or companion who has been sent to a larger and better known college. It is not the college; it is the student."

Tricks on the Teachers.

The other day a pupil in one of the public schools asked the teacher to do a little example in grammar, and since then what seemed at first to be a simple problem has had the serious consideration of all the pedagogues in the community, and it has been unanimously agreed that there is no rule in grammar to cover the point raised. The youngster's proposition was this:

"It is two miles to Woodford. Now, please write under that sentence, 'There are two twos in the above sentence.'"

That is what the boy said. He did not submit the problem in writing, and when the teacher tried to follow his injunction she found out the reason why. It dawned on her that there were not two twos, neither were there two twos, and how to express in writing what was easy enough to do verbally she ascertained to be impossible.

The boy responsible for the foregoing must be a near relative to the youth who asked his teacher how to spell paris green, and when she replied, 'P-a-r par, i-a, paris, g-r-e-e-n, green; paris green,' retorted:

"No; you're wrong. You can't spell paris green, or blue, or any other color. You can't spell it anything but paris."

Fifty Years Ago.

This is the stamp that the letter bore which carried the story far and wide, Of certain cure for the loathsome sore That bubbled up from the tainted tide Of the blood below. Ayer's Sarsaparilla

The Grand Army.

The annual assembly of the Grand Army of the Republic which has this week been in session at Buffalo, marks the flight of time in the ranks of the heroes at Appomattox.

Every year the veterans drop from the roll call and cross the river like their brave opponent, Stonewall Jackson, and rest under the shade of the trees. But with all the losses from natural causes, the grand army presents a noble array of veterans. True there are many who march with feeble step and slow, and few there are whose locks are not whitened with the years; but for all that there are few whose eyes do not kindle as they hear the roll of the drum.

Years go by and these anniversaries come and go and serve to quicken the hearts of patriotic American to a fuller sense of the heroic deeds of the men of the north, who fought for four long years as brave and stubborn a foe as ever contested on a battle field, and won a victory for humanity, at the same time preserving intact this great nation for mighty achievements in the future.

To-day there is not a city in the broad land which would not give our heroes a cordial welcome, so fast is the spirit of bitterness engendered by the war, disappearing.

Editorial Cinders.

While the TOWNSMAN is not a political newspaper, we cannot refrain from saying a few words in support of a man so eminently qualified for the position of senator as is Harry R. Dow.

A man of the people, successful in his profession, affable in address and showing ability in every position to which he has been called, he is by training and experience the kind of man that such an office should command. The republicans are to be congratulated that his nomination is so strong a probability.

The Cornell scholarships at Phillips and Abbot Academies are for the poor children of Andover who seek a higher education. They are to be applied for each year and so far have done a great deal of good.

Any who may desire this aid for next year should send written applications to Supt. Johnson at once.

A sewerage system? Oh yes, Andover did consider such an affair once, but that was long ago. It is not to come now till the number of voters has been lessened by a good vigorous campaign led by the Hon. Typhoid Fever from Cesspool village.

Every school child in Andover will thank Supt. Chandler for his compliance with the TOWNSMAN's request for a walk connecting the Bartlett street and Panchard avenue concrete with the school grounds.

If you want to help make Andover streets, don't drive in just the same place all the time.

It Is for You.

York beach, a short way from Portsmouth, is one of the most rugged resorts on the Eastern New England coast, and it is also one of the interesting regions of which Maine boasts. There are numerous attractions to be found there including excellent bathing facilities, and boating in a pasture which is indulged in to a great extent.

Everywhere about York beach are excellent drives, and the walks are superb. The shore dinners which are to be obtained at a very low rate are of a quality equal to the cuisine of the Metropolitan hotels.

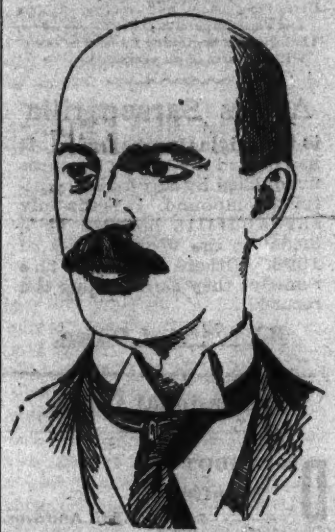

The Boston & Maine railroad will run an excursion from Tewksbury, Ballardvale, Andover, South Lawrence, North Andover, Bradford, and Haverhill to York beach on Wednesday, September 1st. The round trip to be only $1.50. For time of special trains and other information see poster.

THE NEXT SENATOR.

Nomination of Harry R. Dow of North Andover a Republican Probability.

The contest for senatorial honors in the district comprising Andover, North Andover, Boxford, Topsfield, Methuen and Lawrence becomes warmer with each succeeding year. The fight of two years ago will at once come to mind as these words are written and the names of two Andover men will be brought up as well, as senatorial matters are considered. In that contest Judge Poor an old resident and John L. Brewster a new resident, of Andover, played a prominent part, the former as Andover's candidate, and the latter as a choice of a goodly share of the Lawrence delegates, of which city he was then a resident. The result of the convention is well known, Mr. Derbyshire had a majority of the delegates; he has served two years as senator and is now looking for another office.

HARRY R. DOW, CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR.

This year the contest is less complicated but equally animated. Judge Poor would undoubtedly like the election but as Lawrence controls the convention it is probable he will make no contest. Mr. Brewster is not a candidate in any way, shape or manner and while there is talk of a favorite son in Methuen, it is as good as settled that the contest is between two Lawrence lawyers Harry R. Dow a resident of North Andover and Charles F. Sargent.

Both of these gentlemen have served in the house and seek promotion, and both are well spoken of as legislators.

On the surface there seems but little to choose from, but the strong and hearty endorsement of one of these candidates over the others, by the men of high standing and large affairs in the district, together with an equally hearty approval of his legislative career by the working men and others so directly interested in the representatives, make Harry R. Dow pre-eminent as the right kind of a man for the honorable office of senator. Mr. Dow is a young man who has made a marked success in his profession as a lawyer. He is associated with Col. Sweeney in his practice and lives in a pleasant home in North Andover. His residence for many years in Lawrence has made for him a host of friends there and already he is popular as a North Andover citizen. His nomination will bring honor to the republican party and his election will assure an able and honorable senator to this important district.

Sloyd School Exhibition.

An exhibit of the models made by the pupils of the Sloyd School was given at the Guild House, last Saturday afternoon. Among the articles displayed by each boy were a flower-plate, flower-stick, pen holder, tool-rack, coat-hanger, cutting board, flower pot stand, flower pot stool, key-board, paper knife, pen tray, and knife box. In making these objects the boys became familiar with the proper use of the knife, saw, jack-plane, try-square, bit brace, chisel, turning saw, divider, file, and gauge, besides the drawing board, T square, triangle, pencil, rule and compass, used in drafting.

The interest shown by the boys in their work, the steady improvement in the handling of tools, and the self-reliance in working out in wood the ideas they had in mind were gratifying to all interested in the school. The idea of usefulness so prominent in all the models was readily grasped by the boys and proved a source of interest and pride in achievement to them. Too much can never be said in favor of a happy, busy, healthful, thoughtful employment of the leisure of children. The Guild has made a praiseworthy effort along this line in Andover.

Much praise is due Mr. J. K. Cole, the teacher of the classes, for the success of the school.

Mr. Higgins' reputation as a generous provider of everything that goes up to make a first class team is a guarantee that this new departure will be first class in equipment and service.

More Land for the Hood Farm.

Charles I. Hood has recently purchased two tracts of land in West Andover that considerably enlarge his already large and finely appointed farm. The purchase comprises something over twenty-three acres of the old Perrin farm and an additional tract of over nine acres in the same neighborhood. The total acreage, 23, thus added to the land previously owned by Mr. Hood means that his farm will be one of the largest in this section of New England. The deed is signed by Thomas E. Perrin and wife of Attleborough and John B. Bailey. The original Hood farm in this vicinity was taken from the Perrin estate in large part.

Dover Races Lead.

The races at Dover a few days ago at the reopening of Granite State Park were in every way so successful that the management has again arranged for a series of events for the week beginning August 30th.

The purses which have been made include premiums for every class and a large field is already entered. It is the intention of those interested to make Granite State Park one of the most prominent in the New England circuit, and so far the untiring efforts of the promoters of the enterprise have met with unequalled success, and the coming meeting will rank second to none in quality and quantity.

From August 30th to Sept. 3rd, inclusive, the Boston & Maine Railroad will sell reduced rate tickets to Dover from many of the stations. Information can be obtained at ticket offices regarding rates, etc.

ANDOVER FIREMEN'S OUTING.

Members of Local Engine Company Entertained by the Eben Suttons.

Members of the Andover Fire department were cordially entertained at Echo camp, Lake Cochichewick, North Andover, Saturday afternoon and evening by the members of the Eben Sutton Engine company of North Andover.

It was an annual event and was one of the most successful affairs ever conducted by the North Andover fire fighters. They entertained, besides their Andover brethren, firemen from Lawrence, Methuen, Ballardvale and several from towns more distant. The members of the Andover company maintained their reputation for being prompt by reaching the camp first. The J. P. Bradlee Hose company of Ballardvale was next to arrive. The C. H. Tenney Hook and Ladder company of Methuen did not reach the scene of festivities till late in the afternoon. They were on hand to secure their share of the fun, however, and they did not let the opportunity to enjoy themselves slip by.

An excellent dinner was served at 3 o'clock and in the evening the firemen partook of a fine spread furnished by Caterer William R. Johnson. While the boys were not eating some enjoyed themselves with games, others went boating and others made music or listened to that furnished by their friends.

The party broke up at a late hour well pleased with the entertainment afforded by the genial hosts.

Among the North Andover persons present were the following:

Hon. Moses T. Stevens, Judge Newton F. Frye, Selectman Walter H. Hayes, Selectman P. P. Daw, Street Commissioner H. M. Stowers, Auditor Chas. H. Robinson.

Chief Engineer Edmund S. Colby, Asst. Engineer Geo. Stone.

From Lawrence the following were present:

The Methuen contingent included the following:

Capt. Dennis E. Hill, Lieut. Julian E. McKay, Clerk Edward K. Davis, William Dow, Thomas Dow, Harry Brown, Edward Brachett, Fred E. Clark, Eugene Hall, J. Alfred Walsh.

From Andover the following enjoyed the festivities:

Coming Home.

One of the most delightful parts of a vacation to us Andoverians is the returning home to find how many pleasures we have at our own doors. Pleasures that stand out clearly to our refreshed senses.

The pure, sweet, country air, the varied wide inspiring views, worth taking a day's journey to get in a strange place; numberless walks and drives, with chances for canoeing on our little river, and for fishing and boating on our ponds. Before we are too busy let us take some of our favorite walks and drives, and first that which is widest known over the country, to Indian Ridge.

One of its natural wood-paths has lately been trimmed so that a large barge has driven through with ease. This road is the one which is entered by the gravel pit, and runs parallel with the widest part of the Ridge to which it gives easy access. It is plainly marked with white cloths, and comes out on the back West Parish road just opposite "Samson's Hockey." Continuing up the West Parish road, the second wood path to the right is good travelling for a single horse and wagon. Take it if you wish for freedom from houses and people, and the shelter of old pines. Leave your horse under the large hemlock near the foot of the west ridge, and follow the trail through the ferns and blackberry bushes to the top of the ridge, the scramble will give a view, and air, which will make you forget everything but the delightful surprise.

The best way for cyclists to reach the west ridge is to go along the same back West Parish road to the boundary of the ridge land, marked by a stone wall, and a white cloth, there mount the low spur and climb to its summit.

If we should all make this excursion within the next four weeks, we should realize how well worth saving are the trees on the lower ridge, and be ready for the lawn party to be given in its behalf, the particulars of which will be announced before long.

Base-ball.

The Andover Social Club nine defeated the West Ends of Lawrence Saturday by a score of 16 to 1. Saunders' pitching was the feature of the game. He struck out 14 men and but four base hits were made off his delivery.

RIVERSIDES, 17; TIGERS, 14.

The Tigers were defeated by the Riversides on the Phillips Academy campus Saturday afternoon, by a score of 17 to 14. At the end of the ninth inning the score was a tie, 14 to 14. In the tenth the Riversides added three runs and won, the Tigers failed to score in their half of the inning.

Mander and Boyle caught for the Riversides and Donovan pitched. Pomeroy and Cullinane composed the battery for the Tigers.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Riversides	4	3	0	2	1	1	0	3	17
Tigers	5	0	2	2	0	0	5	0	14

Obituary.

MRS. PAMELIA STEVENS.

Mrs. Pamela Stevens, who celebrated her 100th birthday July 31, died early Tuesday morning at her home in West Andover. She had been ill for some months and the end had been expected at any time.

A native of Andover, Mrs. Stevens had always made her home here. She was born in what is now Lawrence and the cellar remains on Andover street to mark the place where her home then stood. She was the last of her family, her husband and four children having gone before her, the oldest daughter dying about three years ago, at the age of 78 years. Practically all of her life since marriage had been spent in the cottage just across the Andover line on the South Lowell road.

Mrs. Stevens was of the family of Stevens, who were numbered among the early settlers of Andover. They came from Andover, Eng. She and her sister Susanna married brothers, also named Stevens. Her husband, Abiel Stevens, passed away in 1866 at the age of 64 years. Her nearest relative is Charles Stevens, son of Susanna, who is himself 65 years old. Pamela and Susanna had four brothers, but the daughters were the only ones to attain remarkable ages. Susanna died in 1891, when she was 91 years old.

When Lafayette passed through this section, Pamela was one of those who gathered to see him near Poor's Tavern, now the Revere house, on Broadway, Lawrence, where the stage coach upon which he was riding stopped.

Up to the time of the death of her daughter, Mrs. Stevens was able to be about the house and took care of her during her final illness, since then she had been slowly failing.

Funeral services were held at her late residence this afternoon, Rev. Clark Carter officiating.

MRS. LIZZIE A. JAQUITH UPTON.

The friends of Lizzie A. Jaquith Upton will hear with surprise and deep sorrow of her death, which occurred Saturday morning last at the residence of her father in Scotland district.

Mrs. Upton had been ill for several months, but not confined to her bed continuously. An attack of peritonitis which she sustained some time ago left a weakness from which she never recovered. Saturday morning she was about the house and fifteen minutes before her death was lying in a hammock out of doors.

Deceased was born in Andover in 1893 and was educated in the public schools and at Pynchard Free school. She was graduated from there in the class of 1890 with high rank and carried out not only the love of her classmates but the highest esteem of her teachers. Possessed of a very lovable disposition she made many friends and to them her death will be a severe shock.

She was married in 1889 to Arthur F. Upton of North Reading and their home there was most attractive and beautiful.

A short funeral service was held at the home of her childhood at 1 o'clock, Tuesday, with Rev. Mr. Dickinson of Andover in charge and services were conducted at the North Reading Congregational church by Rev. Mr. Kilburn. Interment was at North Reading. Many floral offerings were a part of the expression of sorrowing friends, among others being a beautiful wreath from her classmates at Pynchard.

William Shaw left Wednesday on another trip in the interests of the C. E. Society. He will speak at the State conventions held at Dubuque, Iowa, and Wyona, Ind.

An unusually fierce thunder storm swept over the Vale Sunday afternoon. The lightning struck the engine house tower and also ran in on the telephone wires to Dr. C. H. Shattuck's drug store but luckily did not set fire in either case.

Otis White received word from his lawyer that he considered his claim a remarkably good one, Mr. White being the nearest living heir known of his great grandfather, Joseph Morse, who left a large fortune in England.

Mrs. Sarah A. Leonard, Grand Secretary of Boston, paid an official visit to Ballard Vale lodge, No. 105, last Monday evening. Twelve members of Red Spring lodge of Andover were present. Mrs. Leonard gave the Good Templars a very helpful and practical address on the plan and work of the Order.

Last Wednesday a party of twenty went to Swampscott on a fishing trip. John Shaw took the first prize for the largest fish, catching a fine eighteen pound cod. The weather was all that could be desired, and while the time and attention of some of the party was taken up with other things than fishing, it was the most enjoyable trip ever made from the Vale.

MEMBER OF SCHOOL BOARD.

One May Be Elected to Succeed Dr. Donovan.

It is reported that the city government will be called together soon for the purpose of electing a member of the school committee to succeed the late Dr. Henry V. Donovan.

It is also said that the meeting will be called while Mayor Jenkins is away, as some of the city fathers believe that the vacancy should be filled at once. Others are of the opinion that it is altogether too late in the year to elect a member of the school board.

Gulford C. Brown, one of the oldest laundymen in the city, died of heart failure early Tuesday morning, being found dead in his bed. He was born in Nova Scotia 76 years ago on May 6, and previous to coming to this city lived in Bangor, Me. He came here 23 years ago and soon after his arrival started a laundry on Water street near the steamboat landing. They were called forward by Miss Bertha E. Lawrence, the patriarch, who in a neat address welcomed them and presented them with a handsome banquet lamp in behalf of the members as an evidence of the esteem in which they are held. It was a complete surprise but the recipients expressed their appreciation of the beautiful gift. A short reception followed the presentation.

PIANOS

Few people have the courage to buy a cheap piano after carefully examining a really fine one. A pretty casing is often designed to sell a poor musical instrument. These well known makes combine beauty outside and worth within. Among the first-class ones these three are the most popular—not low priced and inferior, but cheap for their superior quality. These pianos can be purchased from $300 to $400, according to size and case—quality just the same. We will rent you one of these famous instruments for three months delivered right in your home for $15. Medium grade pianos for $12. Cheap pianos for $10. If you decide the piano is all we claim for it and decide to purchase, the rent will be allowed as payment on your instrument.

Yacht Crew Saved.

Newburyport, Aug. 25.—The Plum Island life-saving crew rescued the crew of three men of the sloop Louise of Dorchester, which was wrecked in the North breakers, at the entrance of this harbor, yesterday afternoon. Shortly before noon the lookout at the station sighted a yacht making for the harbor. The wind was blowing a gale, and the rain poured in torrents. In a few minutes the yacht was in the breakers and laboring hard. Finally a sea boarded her and the anchor was let go with the hope that it would prevent the craft from drifting on the shoals and upsetting.

In the mean time, the life-saving crew were active and had hauled the surf boat to the beach, launched her and started through the heavy seas to the scene of the disaster. With difficulty the men were rescued, but none too soon, for almost immediately the yacht capsized and disappeared from sight.

On reaching the station the men were furnished with dry clothing, and all soon recovered from exhaustion and exposure. The Louise started yesterday morning from Squam, but the increasing storm caused the boat to run for Newburyport. The rescued men refused to give their names, but it is said that their home is in Cambridge, and that one is a Harvard student.

Great Racing.

Haverhill, Aug. 25.—Fifteen hundred people witnessed some exciting bicycle racing on the main street track Saturday afternoon, and during the pursuit race between teams from this city and Portsmouth great enthusiasm prevailed. There were four riders in each team, and finally the New Hampshire boys pulled out the prices. Of the other races the one-mile lap race was the most hotly contested, and J. F. Ingraham of Boston and James Clarke of Dorchester fought every inch of the ground, both in the trial and final heats, being tied for first place in the final. The summaries:

Half-mile handicap—Won by J. W. Rich, Boston (30 yards); C. W. Coburn, Leominster, (30 yards) second; F. S. Mackay, Boston, (20 yards), third. Time 1:05 1-5.

One-mile lap race—J. F. Ingraham, Eagle B. Club, Boston, and James Clarke, Dorchester, tied; G. W. Drury, Winchendon, third. Time, 2:29. On the toss-up for the first place, Clarke won.

Two-mile handicap—Won by C. W. Coburn (180 yards); C. B. Drury, (saratoga), second; James Clarke (40 yards), third; A. H. Sawyer, Winchendon (40 yards), fourth. Time, 4:50 4-5. Five-mile inter city race, Portsmouth vs. Haverhill—Won by Portsmouth team at 4 1-2 miles. Time 11:10.

His Money Demanded.

Gloucester, Aug. 25.—The third hold-up on the Rockport road occurred last evening, the scene being between the entrance of the water works and Nathaniel Pool's place. The attempted victim was Edward F. Millett, a fruit dealer. Had he got into the grasp of his would-be captors, they would have secured $150. Millett had been on a bill collecting expedition. He was walking along in the road when two men sprang from a clump of bushes and demanded his money.

Millett, mindful of his hard earned money, replied with a "No, you don't," to which came the reply, "We don't, don't we?" Then a grand sprinting match began, and Millett, although a small fellow, outfooted the highwaymen and left them in the rear. Nathaniel Pool reports seeing two suspicious-looking men near there a short time afterward, but they made no effort to molest him. The police made a thorough search of the locality, but did not discover the men.

Sailor Drowned.

Marblehead, Aug. 25.—Augustus North, 26, employed as a sailor onboard the yacht Alga, was drowned in the harbor early this morning. With L. H. Hanson, a sailor on board the yacht Nantauk, he spent the evening on the neck. They were on the way to their respective crafts in a dingy. When part way out they commenced fooling, and thereby upset the boat, and were both thrown into the water. Hanson could not swim and so clung to the upturned boat. North could swim, and, telling Hanson he would look out for himself, started for the neck shore. Both men shouted loudly for help, but before any one could put out to them North had gone down, evidently bewildered in his trying position or exhausted. Hanson, who clung to the boat, was rescued. North was a native of Norway and unmarried.

H., Jan. 18 1801, and has always enjoyed good health. She has been twice married, her second husband being John Wentworth, for a long period postmaster in Medford. After her husband died she lived in Watertown for quite a long time, and some three years ago she removed to this city, where she now lives with her granddaughter, Mrs. George Shapleigh. Serofula

Is a deep-seated blood disease which all the mineral mixtures in the world cannot cure. S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is a real blood remedy for blood diseases and has no equal.

Mrs. Y. T. Buck, of Delaney, Ark., had Serofula for twenty-five years and most of the time was under the care of the doctors who could not relieve her. A specialist said he could cure her, but he filled her with arsenic and potash which almost ruined her constitution. She then took nearly every so-called blood medicine and drank them by the wholesale, but they did not reach her trouble. Some one advised her to try S.S.S. and she very soon found that she had a real blood remedy at last. She says: "After taking one dozen bottles of S.S.S. I am perfectly well, my skin is clear and healthy and I would not be in my former condition for two thousand dollars. Instead of drying up the poison in my system, like the potash and arsenic, S.S.S. drove the disease out through the skin, and I was permanently rid of it."

A Real Blood Remedy.

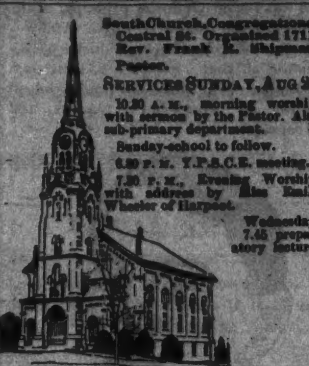

S.S.S. never fails to cure Serofula, Eczema, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, or any disorder of the blood. Do not rely upon a simple tonic to cure a deep-seated blood disease, but take a real blood remedy.

New Johnson High School Principal.

A brief sketch of Charles T. Woodbury, who was recently chosen principal of the Johnson High School of North Andover and who will commence his duties as instructor at that institution, Tuesday, September 7th, will no doubt be of interest to TOWNSMAN readers and townspeople.

Charles Talbot Woodbury was born in Salem, N. H., July 5th, 1873. He received instruction during his early years in a district school of that town. Later he attended the Methuen high school taking the classical course, from which he was graduated in '91. Privileged to secure further educational advantages, he entered Dartmouth College and was among the number graduated from that institution in the class of '95.

For the past two summers he has taken the course of instruction at Harvard and has completed the course in physics. He has also taken the degree of A. B. Since '95 Mr. Woodbury has been assistant principal of Kimball Union Academy of Meriden, N. H.

Mr. Woodbury is a man of pleasing address and, it would seem, thoroughly competent to supervise and instruct the young men and women during their student life at Johnson High School.

Monday afternoon, before Judge Frye, William Thompson, Jr., was arraigned on complaint of Arthur H. Measore for illegally taking and using the complainant's horse. After a lengthy trial Thompson was dismissed. Arthur P. Chickering for the government; J. J. Mahoney for the defendant.

While some freight cars were being shifted, yesterday afternoon, from the side track at the North Andover mill, one of the steel rails snapped in two places, throwing the driving wheels off into the soft road bed. A wrecking train responded promptly from Lawrence and the engine was soon back on the iron. No damage was done to the engine, and about an hour was lost.

Charles H. Jepson, overseer in the carding department of North Andover mills, has severed his connection with that firm. He is to return to his former home in Vassalboro, Me. James Winning is to be his successor. Mr. Winning was for a number of years overseer of the card room in Stevens' mill in town, where he was very much respected by those who came in contact with him.

The regular monthly social of the Epworth league took place Friday evening at the home of Miss Marion Paul, chairman of the social committee, in the form of a lawn party, to which all members of the society were invited with their friends. The members of Rescue lodge, I. O. G. T., were also invited. A very pleasant evening was spent by all who attended. On the branches of the trees were hung Chinese lanterns which made everything look bright and cheerful. The evening was devoted to the playing of outdoor games, after which cake and coffee were served. The other members of the committee were Misses Laura Oxtom, Lizzie Thayer and Messrs. John Bedell and Frank Manchester.

The meeting at the Farnham schoolhouse next Sunday will be held at 3 o'clock. Miss Emily Carlton will read the Bible lesson and Miss Hannah Carlton the sermon. There will also be some soloists there.

Harry F., youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes, died Saturday morning at their home on Railroad street, at one o'clock, aged 8 years, and one month. He had for the past few weeks been affected with St. Vitus dance but the immediate cause of death was heart trouble. The parents have the sympathy of many neighbors and friends. The funeral service took place at the home of the family. The service was conducted by Rev. B. J. Johnson, pastor of M. E. Church of town assisted by the Rev. Claudius Byrne of St. Paul's church, Lawrence. The body reposed in a handsome brocade velvet casket. A quartette composed of the following: Misses Emma and Harriet Keeler and Messrs. I. E. Keeler and John Duncan rendered very effectively, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "My Jesus as Thou Wilt." Among the floral tributes was an anchor inscribed "Our Brother" from M. E. Sunday school and many other bouquets from friends and playmates. Burial was in Ridgewood cemetery. Bonnie Farrow and Matthew Gerard of Haverhill and George Kershaw and Frank Manchester acted as pall bearers.

Card of Thanks.
We desire through the columns of the TOWNSMAN to thank our kind neighbors and friends for their sympathy in our recent bereavement; we also wish to thank those who contributed flowers and for the music rendered so effectively by the quartet.

North Andover Flower Exhibition.

The flower show which was held in Saint Paul's parish house yesterday afternoon and evening was a marked success. Large potted plants were grouped together in various nooks and corners of the house, each one being where its beauty could best be appreciated. The cut flowers, many of which were rare and very beautiful, were arranged artistically on each side and in the centre of the room. One bouquet deserves special mention, not because the flowers were uncommon, but because they grow on the roadsides and fields all over town; they are so common place that one scarcely ever notices them when passing by; for this reason credit is given to the lady who made such a handsome collection of wild flowers. The Improvement Society has great reason to be proud of its work in connection with the show. Large numbers of people took the opportunity so freely given to attend both afternoon and evening. The music was very fine and enjoyed by all; Miss Stillings presided at the piano and Mr. Moses Salisbury, mandolin. The following is a list of the prizes awarded.
